We are the law firm of Lamonts and have our principal place of business at 16 Miller Road AYR KA7 2AY. You can contact us at: 16 Miller Road AYR KA7 2AY by phone on 01292 262266 or by email at mail@lamontslaw.co.uk

Our Undertaking to you

This Privacy Statement describes how we collect and use your data. We will use it to look after your interests in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and the Data Protection Act 2018 and to ensure we are enabled to lawfully act on your behalf. We will make sure that we collect and store your data securely.

If you are a client of the firm:

We will collect your data from you either in person, over the phone, or by email, letter or fax.

If you are a client of another law firm:

We will receive your personal data from your solicitor

If you are not a client of our firm but sign up to our eNewsletter:

We will receive your personal data from you when you complete an online signup form.

Data we receive from third parties

We will also receive and process personal data of third parties for whom we neither act nor have any connection. This may belong to the defender or witness in a court case, the beneficiary in a Will or Executry case or the other party in an accident case. These are examples of where we might receive and process personal data which does not belong to our clients. This list is not exhaustive and we will receive and process personal data from a wide range of third parties

The types of personal data we collect

We collect name and contact details including your postal address, telephone numbers and email addresses. We collect identification information from you.

If you are a client, we collect additional personal data as is necessary to properly represent you and carry out your lawful instructions to us. This can include personal and business financial information, health and medical information, information on your family members and their circumstances.

How we will use your personal data

Where you are a client, we will use your personal data to act on your behalf in the matter or matters you have instructed us in. These are set out in the Terms of Business we have sent to you.

We will also be in touch with you from time to time to explain other services we can provide that may be relevant to your circumstances and inform you about changes in the law that might impact on you, your family, your business or your employment or which otherwise may affect you. If you do not wish to receive such communications, please let us know and you will be excluded from receiving them.

Where you are not a client, we will process your data for the purpose of carrying out our client's instructions in a transaction or case in which we are acting. If you are not a client and have signed up to receive our eNewsletter, we will use your personal data to send you our eNewsletter.

You have the following rights in relation to your personal data:

You have the following rights:

- Access to the personal data we hold about you, free of charge in most cases. However we may charge a reasonable fee or refuse to comply with your request if your request for access is clearly unfounded or excessive;
- The correction of your personal data when incorrect, out of date or incomplete;
- Object to the processing of your personal data where we have no legitimate overriding interest, or once the purpose for which we hold the data has come to an end;
- That we stop using your personal data for direct marketing;
- That we stop any consent-based processing of your personal data after you withdraw that consent.
- To ask us to delete or erase your personal data (subject to our Terms of Business in the case of clients)

To protect the confidentiality of your information, we will ask you to verify your identity before proceeding with any request you make under this Privacy Notice. If you have authorised a third party to submit a request on your behalf, we will ask them to prove they have your permission to act.

On what basis are we processing your personal data?

Where you are a client

Our Lawful Basis for Processing your personal data is based on the Contract we have with you as set out in our Terms of Business letter.

Where you are not a client of the firm and have signed up for our eNewsletter

Our Lawful Basis for Processing your personal data is your Consent which can be withdrawn at any time after which you will receive no further communications of this nature from us.

If another solicitor or organisation acting for you has provided your personal data in the course of a transaction with us on behalf of a client for whom we act.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing your personal data is the Legitimate Interests of this firm and its clients to properly and lawfully represent our clients' interests. This Lawful Basis for Processing also applied to personal data of individuals who have no connection with our firm where our clients instruct us to carry out such processing. Examples of such individuals are beneficiaries named in a Will, the Defender who we are instructed to sue, or a witness in a court action. This list is not exhaustive and there are many other instances where we will be required to process personal data as instructed by our clients.

Measures in place to ensure the protection of any Children's or Special Category of data held

We ensure any children's or special category of data we hold are properly stored in our access controlled data store on our Network and in our firm's Practice Management systems which, again, can only be accessed through a secure username and password.

Any data of this nature held in paper files, is held in filing cabinets within our offices which are generally locked [and alarmed] when unoccupied.

This data is only accessed by solicitors and staff members within our firm and no access is available to third parties in respect of this data.

Data is stored in our access controlled data store on our Network and in our firm's Practice Management systems which, again, can only be accessed through a secure username and password.

Personal data processed by third parties on our behalf

Your personal data will be processed by third parties with whom we are required to deal with when acting properly and lawfully for you. Examples of such parties are professional searchers, our IT support company and our practice management system support desk, our file store for closed files, and our secure shredding company. This list is not exhaustive and will change from time to time. If you require specific details, please contact us.

We are regulated by The Law Society of Scotland and they have a right of access to our books and records to carry out regulatory inspections. They may remove personal data from our premises and systems in order to carry out regulatory checks.
